Industry visionary launches Next Level Security Systems
New company will showcase its feature-rich and cost-effective networked security solutions at ISC West 2010

Carlsbad, Calif. – March 2, 2010 – Peter Jankowski, a founder of Loronix and Sypixx, along with a team of seasoned security executives and world-class engineers have launched Next Level Security Systems (www.nlss.com). The company will unveil its line of unified networked solutions at ISC West 2010 in Las Vegas.

“Next Level Security Systems is focused on developing enterprise-class, networked security systems in a compact, easy-to-deploy and affordable solution,” said Jankowski, Chairman and CEO, Next Level Security Systems, who previously served as Chief Technology Officer of Cisco’s Physical Security Business Unit. “The company is driven by the belief that the integration of traditionally separate subsystems into a single appliance can bring significant value to the entire market.”

Next Level’s flagship product, the groundbreaking NLSS Gateway, integrates traditionally separate subsystems into a completely unified networked solution from the ground up. The company’s IP-based technologies are built on open standards, including PSIA and ONVIF, offer a robust set of capabilities and are designed to be easy-to-configure but offered at a significantly lower cost than comparable solutions.

“Next Level Security Systems’ sophisticated product line will redefine the industry, providing users with correlated information from traditionally separate subsystems that enable operators to respond to potential incidents more effectively,” said Jumbi Edulbehram, Vice President of Business Development, Next Level Security Systems.

The full suite of Next Level’s solutions will be on display at booth 6092 at the 2010 ISC West Conference and Exhibition, held March 24-26 at the Sands Convention Center in Las Vegas.
